The late BSL Police Chief Douglas Williams honored with portrait on 'Wall of Black Excellence' at MLK Park in Bay

Friends and family of the late Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams on Sunday gathered at Martin Luther King, Jr. Park in Bay St. Louis to celebrate the unveiling a new mural in Williams' honor.

On Sunday, the Hancock County NAACP unveiled the long-awaited mural of the late Chief Douglas Williams at Martin Luther King Park in Bay St. Louis.

"It's important to have positive Black images in the community to offset the negativity and things associated with the Black community and Martin Luther King Park," Hancock County NAACP President Gregory Barabino said this week. "That overall narrative was created by people who do not frequent the park."

"We really take for granted that the children have role models to look up to," Barabino said last month when the first of three murals honoring local heroes went up at the park — that one representing the late Coach Willie Ezekiel Bradley, Jr.

Barabino said at the time that two more murals were planned — all painted by local artist Marian Glaser — including Chief Williams and the late Valena C. Jones.

It was important to honor Williams, who was Bay St. Louis' first black police chief, Barabino said.

"The fact that you have police relationships issues now in this day and age, and we've always had them, but the fact that we had a young man that was from this community and

A Hancock County School District student was treated and released at a local hospital Monday after a minor school bus accident on at Shoreline Park.

Hancock Schools Superintendent Alan Dedeaux said in a press release Tuesday that the "bus was involved in a single vehicle incident Monday afternoon. ... Approximately 20 students were on the bus and exited safely through the emergency exit."

"One student was transferred to Oschner Hospital to be checked for injuries. The student was treated and released."

Waveland Police Chief Mike Prendergast said Tuesday that the accident occurred when the driver "was trying to dodge the potholes and went into the ditch."

"He was heading south on Jordan Street when he observed potholes in the middle of the road and he attempted to avoid the potholes riding alongside the road ... and the bus slid off the road into the ditch," Prendergast said.

The driver was not charged or ticketed for any wrong-doing, Prendergast said.

"Safety is our first priority In our district and we are so grateful no one was seriously injured," Dedeaux said.

The Waveland Police Department is in charge of the investigation.

Developers say proposed Diamondhead Medical project would stimulate economy

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday heard a presentation about the proposed Diamondhead Medical Center, a TIF-related project.

According to the National Housing Conference's National Housing Policy Guide, a TIF or tax increment financing is a "tool used by municipal governments to stimulate economic development in a targeted geographical area. TIFs are used to finance redevelopment projects or other investments using the anticipation of future tax revenue resulting from new development."

Lawrence Leyens with Urban Development Toolbox said that the intent of Monday's presentation was to walk the board through the project.

"The outcome we're looking for is to get an informal nod from the board to proceed with the documentation of actually putting a TIF plan together, which is a pretty involved task that we'll be working with the bond attorney on," he said.

Realtor and real estate investor Jonathan Marshall said that he and his father, Rick, own and manage Marshall Investment Group.

"Currently, we have approximately 85,000 square feet of commercial center up and down the coast," he said. "We're just here to discuss our new proposed medical center complex at the intersection of East Aloha and Veterans Drive in Dia-

Bay St. Louis welcomes three newly-certified firefighters

SEA COAST ECHO

Firefighters Nicholas Proulx, Darius Alexander and Joshua Jimenez of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department graduated Feb. 22, 2020 from the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 1001 Firefighter I-II course held at the Mississippi State Fire Academy in Jackson, MS.

This intense seven-week course included classroom and hands-on instruction in the areas of fire behavior, fire suppression, rescue, incident command, hazardous materials and other fire related topics. This course meets and exceeds the National Fire Protection Association for Firefighter Qualifications and the uniform minimum training standards stated in the Mississippi Code section 45-11-7.

The Mississippi State Fire Academy is a division of the Mississippi Insurance Department. Commissioner Mike Chaney and Academy Executive Director Terry Wages conclude that firefighters, through their newly acquired skills and knowledge, will be an asset to the fire departments they represent in implementing fire protection and prevention for their community.

Bay Second Liners plan ‘Shamrockin’ Roll’ event will be one of my last executive orders regarding COVID-19,” Reeves said Tuesday. “Our hospitalizations have plummeted, and our case numbers have fallen dramatically as well. In fact, our case numbers have fallen to the point where no county meets the original criteria for a mask mandate.”

The only rules that will remain in place are those for K-12 schools, which will still require a mask where social distancing is not possible. Seating for K-12 extracurricular activities at outdoor venues is now set at 50 percent capacity and 25 percent maximum seating capacity inside. Seating capacity for indoor bowl and arena seating is now increased to 50 percent.

“I am replacing our current orders with recommendations,” Reeves said. “Everyone should continue to listen to Dr. Dobbs and other health advisors for the best possible wisdom regarding how you can personally stem any risk of catching COVID.”

Reeves asked that Mississippians continue to use their “best judgment and continue to look after your loved ones.”

“There is no replacement within the government for good common sense,” Reeves said.

Dr. Thomas Dobbs, the state’s health officer, said Tuesday that 50 percent of Mississippians 75 and older have received at least the first dose of the vaccine. A large proportion is fully vaccinated.

About 45 percent of those who are 65 and older have received their first dose.

Dobbs advised that those who are over 65 and that residents who are 16 and older who have chronic conditions not attend gatherings until they are fully vaccinated.

Dobbs said that more than 600,000 vaccinations have been administered statewide.

Appointments for the Johnson and Johnson single dose vaccine will soon be made available on the health department’s website.

Dobbs said Tuesday that there is a broad criteria for vaccinations right now: Residents over 65; people with high risk conditions over 16; first responders, healthcare workers, educators, and day care workers.

Utility Authority aims to go solar

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Utility Authority recently received grant funding to make improvements to its system.

HCUA Executive Director David Pitalo said HCUA has “always been putting in for grant funding.”

RESTORE funding, he said, is for projects that can help with water quality.

The first project, made possible by RESTORE funding, is a sewer collection system for the Bayou LaCroix area, Pitalo said. The total project cost is $1.1 million.

It will connect 26 homes, he said, on the north side of Bayou LaCroix, west side of Highway 603.

All properties have been identified and title work has been completed, he said.

“They’re in the process of moving forward and discussing with the homeowners the easements that are needed to be able to install the system,” Pitalo said. “It’s all completely free for them (residents), they don’t have to pay anything. If for some reason they decline now and later on they decide that they want it, they’ll have to pay for an install through the Water and Sewer District. That’s their certificated area.”

The design has been completed and the HCUA is finalizing some wetland permitting issues, Pitalo said.

Once all that is complete, he said, the HCUA will bid the project out and select a contractor.

Pitalo said that the project is expected to go out for bid some time this year.

He said that the residents are currently using septic tanks.

The project will include the Bayou LaCroix all the way to the buffer zone, he said.

“Hopefully, will eliminate 100 percent, that is if we can get everyone to hook up, any waste that may leak into the bayous,” Pitalo said. “We’re trying to clean up Jourdan River and Bayou LaCroix.”

Weather permitting, Pitalo estimates that the construction will take about nine months.

“Once it’s completed, in a sense, the bayou will become cleaner every day from then on out,” he said.

The second project involves BP Restoration funds.

The HCUA received $3.2 million for an out-fall line that will discharge into the Pearl River near the boat ramp in Logtown in Pearlinton, Pitalo said.

“We will end up running a whole new line down that way,” he said.

“Very few easements at all. It will start from the plant, go right down Whites Road and to Logtown Road.”

Pitalo said the pumps and some of the electrical system at the plant will be redone. A diffuser will be placed at the end of the line underwater.

“When you’re finished with the treatment at your plant, the good water goes back out,” he said. “Now, we’ll be able to discharge out to the Pearl River. It gets a better mixing.”

Pitalo said the HCUA will soon move forward with advertising for RFQs for engineering and administrative services.

The HCUA board will score each applicant and whoever receives the best score will get the project, Pitalo said.

At that point, the design and permitting stage of the project will begin. On the administrative side, there will be an effort to ensure that DEQ has the appropriate documents.

Once the design is complete and the HCUA knows how many easements will be required, then can advertise for legal services to bid on the easements, he said.

Construction can begin after that. Pitalo said he expects it will be a two-year project, with construction itself lasting roughly a year.

The HCUA has also recently applied for two GOMESA projects.

The first is funding to purchase the water and sewer certificate at Oak Harbor subdivision in Pearlinton, Pitalo said, which would affect about 60 homes.

“If we get the funding, we purchase the certificate, we will put in a new sewer collection system,” he said. “And we will remove the small package treatment plant and so all the sewer, at that point, will tie into a line that runs out front of the subdivision and go back to our plant. The whole community of Pearlinton will then at that point be on a centralized sewer and being treated through a mechanical treatment plant.”

Also in the package, the HCUA will get the existing well and tie it into the existing Pearlinton water distribution system. Then Pearlinton would have a full-time/permanent back up well.

The second project the HCUA is hoping to secure funds for is the Atlantic Street sewer collection system.

“Between there and 603, there’s an area there that no one, for some reason or another, ever put in a sewer collection system,” Pitalo said. “It’s low and it goes in septic tanks, which is a major drain that goes under 603 and out to the front. We’re trying to eliminate that.”

He added that it would affect about 60 homes.

Pitalo said that he is hoping to hear news about these projects in the next month.

In an effort to the save on energy costs, the HCUA board hired PATH Company, LLC in July 2020, which is an “infrastructure solutions company focused on helping government entities identify, develop, and implement solutions that leverage today’s technology to create better efficiencies in the areas of energy, water and/or operations,” PATH’s website states.

The company evaluated the plants and recommended changes, Pitalo said, and 90 percent of them have been implemented.

“Right now, just with the process improvements, we’ve had approximately 20 to 25 percent reduction in our power usage,” Pitalo said. “We are in the stages right now of finalizing the layout for our solar panels. We’re going to be putting in solar at all three facilities.”

The HCUA has three plants: The western plant is in Pearlinton; the northern plant is on Texas Flat Road; and the southern plant is in Waveland.

Pitalo said he hopes the solar panel installation will begin in June or July and will take about a year to complete.

He said that it’s not costing the HCUA anything right now to contract with PATH.

There is a 25-year warranty on the solar system, which will be built to hurricane ratings.

Pitalo said that when he first started as the HCUA’s executive director, the highest electric bill was $26,000.

“I’ve done some changes over time and some things personally myself here,” he said. “But then they came in and made the process changes, we’re down to $12,000 to $13,000 right now. If we put the solar panels in, I’m thinking we’re going to be somewhere around $7,000.”

Pitalo said that there are no initial costs, but every month, the HCUA will send a percentage of its savings to PATH.

“That will go for seven years,” he said. “After that, they will basically sell the equipment to us and we will see the benefits at that point from then on out. They handle all operations and maintenance for the next seven years. My goal — from day one — is to be the first wastewater treatment facility in the state of Mississippi to be powered by solar and we’re going to be close.”

he ascended to the highest position in the police force, kind of offsets when people say the police can’t be trusted. You had somebody that you could reach out and touch.”

Veteran educator Clementine Williams is the oldest of Chief William’s six daughters.

She said the mural is a “great honor.”

“I say it’s been a long time coming,” Clementine said. “Everyone that has come to me and said things about daddy, white and black, was that he called it like he saw it,” she said. “He was fair. He was patient. He got to know all the people in his community and was so kind and funny and different. He just did what he had to do as a police chief and they all respected him.

I thought he did a fine job. And plus, he came home to a wife and six girls. He was a good daddy and he spoiled all of us in the same way.”

Barabino said Tuesday that honoring people such as Chief Williams, Coach Bradley and Valena C. Jones is important for the community today and into the future.

“These are unsung heroes, if you will,” he said Tuesday, “whose stories will get lost if we have no good picture of them. They were able to overcome and have a significant impact on every citizen in Hancock County. As much as Black History goes, those stories will be lost if there is no documenting, no books or any symbols of people that have done outstanding things in Hancock County and in our community.

“More importantly, every time our youngsters play in that park now, they can look over their shoulders and see role models that they can identify with. I call it the Wall of Black Excellence. I encourage everyone in the community to bring stories so we can expand the wall and the only criteria is (the subjects) must be someone who had a positive impact on the Black community.

Glaser actually started working on the project last June, creating murals of Dr. King and the late congressman and Civil Rights leader John L. Lewis. She said she hopes the murals “will inspire the children that they can do what they want to do, be who they want to be.”

Glaser said the initial mural project was spearheaded by artist Steve Barney and The Arts, Hancock County.

Barney said last month that the group started with the “iconic” piece featuring John Lewis and Martin Luther King, Jr.

“John Lewis was a leader who represented MLK’s values and so now what we’re doing is picking out the community leaders here in Bay St. Louis who lived the values of MLK and we’re able to honor them. So, this is just one of a series. We hope to have an entire wall filled with murals. We see this as a way to reengage with the community and take back the park.”

mondhead.”

Marshall said that his group has been working on the project for about two years, from meeting with executives at Memorial Hospital to planning with the city of Diamondhead. That also includes securing and clearing the site as well as architectural reviews, he said.

The proposed medical facility would be more than 20,000 square feet, he said. Marshall said the proposed facility would also include a chemo-infusion center. If the project goes through, it will be third chemo-infusion center on the coast. The other two are located at Cedar Lake and Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

“The chemo-infusion center will have its own pharmacy, pharmacist on-site, which is going to mix the drugs and everything,” he said.

Matt Walker, VP of Clinic Operations at MHG, said Memorial already has a 12,000 square foot “footprint” in Diamondhead, located on Leisure Time Drive. Within the existing complex, the services offered include primary care, some specialty rotations, and some imaging and lab services.

“But, we consistently have the need for additional space and the facility is just not affording us to grow and bring the types of services to the Diamondhead community that we would like to bring,” he said. “The plan would be, sometime late summer of next year, on or before August 2022, to relocate the Leisure Time complex to the new planned site. We’ll pick up an additional 5,000 additional square feet. There’s also another tenant that will have a retail pharmacy.”

He added that the complex would allow for more specialty rotations.

Diamondhead Mayor Nancy Depreo said the project is not only economic development for Diamondhead, but for Hancock County as well.

“Having been a patient, as most of you know I have a rare disorder, I spent many years in the infusion center at Memorial Hospital,” she said. “Every three weeks and my treatment was six hours. Currently, I’m getting them at home. But, during those years, many days it was like a family reunion sitting in that infusion center, unfortunately. Many Hancock County residents were there. And if you’ve ever had a treatment and had to drive from Gulfport back to Hancock County, Diamondhead, or Kiln, it is very, very difficult. Many days I had to pull over, just go sit on the beach, feel better, get it together, then drive home.”

Depero said that an infusion center is needed and would complement the services already offered in the city and county and will allow for residents to receive infusions within minutes from their homes.

“It’s something that we definitely need to move forward with healthcare in this county. So we are asking you to please help us support this.”

Leyens continued on with a project summary.

The project is estimated to cost about $4.6 million and generate about 55 medical-related jobs and about five-to-seven full-or-part-time jobs related to the Love’s Pharmacy, which will be in addition to the inside compound pharmacy, he said.

Leyens said that retail sales associated with Love’s Pharmacy in the first year is projected to be about $2.7 million and generate rebated sales tax that are not new of about $30,000 for the city of Diamondhead, he said.

“Currently, this property is generating $9,296 in ad valorem taxes,” he said. “When the project is finished, it will be $88,309.”

The complex would sit on about 2.2 acres, he added.

He also spoke about the list of TIF-related expenses that are “making the project not feasible in terms of an economic development project for an economic developer to spend the money and make the investment and make this make sense from a financial point of view.”

Leyens said that there is about $1 million in TIF-related expenses that are public infrastructure related expenses.

“Based on the city pledging up to 75 percent of the increase in the ad valorem tax, we’re asking the county to also pledge up to 75 percent in increased ad valorem tax, and also the city pledging up to 50 percent of their rebated sales tax,” he said. “We believe that the maximum TIF bond will be about $564,000, prior to bond issuance and costs.”

In a TIF plan, Leyens said, “you’re never pledging in a TIF plan the good faith and credit of the county.”

Leyens said the city and county will not incur any expense related to the TIF plan.

“Even the cost of advertising in the paper for your public hearing needs to be reimbursed by the TIF bond itself,” he said. “The only thing we’re asking you to do is to pledge the increase, not the existing taxes, but the increase in ad valorem taxes that are generated as a result of the project within the legal description of the project.”

Diamondhead City Manager Michael Res said Tuesday that at the city’s last meeting two weeks ago, the board gave Leyens an informal nod to continue working on the documentation for the project.

The board took no official action on Monday, but took the matter under advisement.

Members of the Bay St. Louis City Council said this week they’re working on their end. Bay St. Louis city government and Hancock County Board of Supervisors agreed in March to invest $50,000 each in upgrading the existing BSL Depot to make it ADA-compliant for train passengers.

At its regularly scheduled meeting on Tuesday, the council gave state Sen. Philip Moran a Gulf Coast Restoration Fund funding request to help upgrade the Bay’s historic Depot District. The council is seeking $1.6 million in GCRF funds for the Depot improvements, and the city will have to match $400,000, for an overall project cost of $2 million.

The matching funds would be provided through municipal bonds, officials said.

“We’re trying to get all the council on board to back this project, get the mayor on board to back this project, and I know we’ve got (Hancock) Tourism on board to back this project,” Ward 3 Councilman Jeffrey Reed said Friday.

According to the funding request, “The historic L & N Train Depot is designated a ‘Mississippi Landmark,’ and currently houses the Hancock County Tourism, Bay St Louis Mardi Gras Museum, and Alice Moseley Folk Art Museum. This park area is utilized for art and music festivals. Located across from the depot is ‘Depot Row’ which has become a multi-use area incorporating residential and commercial units. The area needs additional restroom facilities and parking to accommodate the increase participation in art and music festivals. Similarly, the addition of an amphitheater would help support the local music community. The historic depot is also in need of interior updates and exterior repairs to include water proofing, parking and striping and ADA accessibility improvements.”

“The Bay St. Louis Depot is the pearl of the city,” Councilman-at-Large Gary Knoblock said Friday.

Knoblock said whether or not passenger rail service along the Coast is restored, the Depot renovations would be good for Bay St. Louis.

“The train’s just an added benefit,” he said.

The passenger rail restoration project has been in the works since early 2016, when members of the SRC, Sen. Roger Wicker and Gov. Phil Bryant conducted an Amtrak tour from New Orleans to Jacksonville, Fla., stopping in Bay St. Louis and other points on the Gulf Coast along the way.

Once the service is operational, Ross said, there will also be stops in Gulfport, Biloxi and Pascagoula.

Ross said earlier this year that the service would be a huge boon for Bay St. Louis, bringing two trains a day in from New Orleans, and two trains a day in from Mobile.

“There are at least 700,000 foreign visitors a year in New Orleans, and that’s not counting the millions of conventioners every year,” Ross said. “They might not rent a car and drive all the way to the Bay, but they’ll walk a block or two down to the train station for a nice day trip.”

Transportation America Chairman John Robert Smith, who is working with the SRC to facilitate Mobile-to-New Orleans passenger rail service, said in March that an economic impact study indicated that the passenger service would yield a 15-1 return on investment on the Gulf Coast.

The Thinking Spot

I never set out to pursue a career as a preschool teacher.

But, due to a series of unfortunate events, I found myself responsible for the lives and early education of children ages one-to-four.

It is quite a challenging job. There were lesson plans, diaper changes, potty training, and so much more.

Even though I’m not a parent myself, I can understand and appreciate the hard work, dedication, and love that it requires to take care of children.

It wasn’t all rainbows and sunshine, though.

One of my biggest peeves was the whining. Whining about not getting their way, having to do something they didn’t want to do, or if their popsicle color wasn’t to their liking.

A favorite phrase we used to use was, “You get what you get and you don’t throw a fit.”

One memory sticks out clear as day. One of my three-year-old students told me that she was going to scream and cry until she got her way. She told me that’s how it worked at home.

I remember laughing and I told her to go right ahead and I don’t play those games.

Her tantrum finally ended after she realized I would actually listen to it all day and still not give in.

Sometimes, when students weren’t listening, we would sit them down in the “thinking spot,” to reflect on their actions.

Sometimes, when I cover governmental meetings, I want to shout “go sit in the thinking spot,” because it would seem that whining and childish behavior is something some adults don’t grow out of.

The thinking spot is what I think of when I see people without masks in large groups or stores; large events held during a pandemic; people at “leadership” retreats; people screaming that wearing a mask or anything else we have had to alter due to this pandemic is an infringement on their rights.

We all wear seat belts, right? I should hope so.

I’m pro-seatbelt. When I was a teenager, someone ran a stop sign at the intersection of Felicity Street and Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis. My mom didn’t have enough time to stop. I was sitting in the front seat, without my seatbelt on, because we were only driving a short distance to my Maw Maw’s house on Chartres Street.

Well, I was thrown forward and my head hit the windshield. So, I was rushed to the emergency room and required several stitches for the gash in my fore-

MS House Weekly Summary -- Week of Feb. 22

After dealing with winter weather in Jackson and across the state last week, the House met in person to conduct legislative business. Last week, the House met in session and committees via teleconference, similar to what occurred earlier in the session. Wednesday, Feb. 24 marked the deadline for House appropriations and revenue bills to be introduced and passed.

With general House bills out of the way, representatives began working on House appropriations Bills, which will determine how much money is given to various state agencies.

The House was responsible for looking at the preliminary budgets of about 50 state agencies, including the Departments of Insurance, Health, Transportation and Education. These bills represent half of the state’s budget; the other half is currently being considered by the Senate and will be sent to the House for consideration later in the legislative session.

Budgets include reverse repealers, a clause which ensures that a bill cannot become law before going to a conference committee for further revisions. With reverse repealers in place, many appropriations bills were voted on en bloc to help speed up the process.

The House Ways and Means committee also took up several bills on the floor this week, most notably House Bill 1439.

House Bill 1439, or the Mississippi Tax Freedom Act of 2021, would make several changes to current Mississippi tax laws including immediately eliminating the state income tax on $50,000 of individual income and $100,000 for married couples’ income; phasing out the state income tax entirely over a ten-year period; cutting the grocery tax from 7% to 4.5% immediately, then to 3.5% by FY 2027; and increasing the sales tax from 7% to 9.5%. After much debate, HB 1439 passed the House by a vote of 85-34.

The next deadline for House members is next Tuesday, March 2, when all general bills originating in the Senate must be passed out of committee to begin work before the House as a whole. Working on Senate bills will continue until Wednesday, March 10. After this deadline, both houses will have to concur on a bill or go to conference committee to finish working on a bill.

The North American Wildlife Conservation Model

The crusade to manage and conserve fish and wildlife began in the mid-1800s when hunters and anglers realized the need to set limits to protect disappearing species. This cause led to the one-of-a-kind, time-tested conservation program known as the North American Wildlife Conservation Model in which hunters and anglers were among the first to call for the conservation of fish and wildlife. Even today, hunters and anglers are some of the foremost leaders in conservation efforts.

There are two basic principles relative to this model: 1) that our fish and wildlife belong to all North American citizens, and 2) that these resources are to be managed so that populations will be sustained indefinitely. These principles are explained and expounded upon through a set of guidelines known as the “Seven Sisters for Conservation.”

Sister #1: Public Trust. This states that in North America, natural resources on public lands are managed by government agencies to ensure that we always have fish and wildlife as well as wild habitats and places to enjoy.

Sister #2: Prohibition on Commerce of Dead Wildlife. In the late 1800s, the selling of meat, hides, feathers, and other parts of wild animals was a growing business. This led to excessive hunting which severely depleted some species and drove others to near extinction. However, the hides, antlers, teeth, fur, and horns of some game animals may still be sold.

Sister #3: The Democratic Rule of Law. This means that you and every other citizen of the United States and Canada have the right to help create conservation and management laws. Citizens are given the opportunity to attend forums and vote on ballot measures that impact fish and wildlife.

Sister #4: Hunting and Fishing Opportunities for All. This upholds that regardless of your race, creed, social status, religion, or gender, you have the right to legally hunt and fish on most public lands in North America.

Sister #5: Non-Frivolous Use. This simply means that there are laws in place that restrict us from casually killing fish and wildlife. In North America, we can legally kill certain wild animals for food and fur, self-defense, and property protection, but we cannot kill solely for feathers, horns, or antlers or even to use only a small portion of the meat.

Sister #6: Wildlife and Fish as International Resources. This recognizes that fish and wildlife can migrate freely across boundaries between states, provinces, and countries and that we are all responsible for their protection. The Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918 is an example of this concept.

Sister #7: Scientific Management. This considers the supportive aspect of scientific management.

This holds to the belief that applying scientific research is essential to managing and sustaining North American wildlife and habitats.

Regardless of how you feel about hunting or fishing, it is the glue that holds together this unique, world-renowned North American Wildlife Conservation Model. And it is a large reason why we in North America have bountiful fish and wildlife resources that we and future generations can enjoy.

James L. Cummins is executive director of Wildlife Mississippi, a non-profit, conservation organization founded to conserve, restore, and enhance fish, wildlife, and plant resources throughout Mississippi. Their website is www.wildlifemiss.org.

head. So, I definitely think it's better to wear the seatbelt. However, back when a seat beat bill was introduced by a David Hollister in Michigan in the 1980s, people sent him hate mail comparing him to Hitler, history.com states. "At the time, only 14 percent of Americans regularly wore seat belts, even though the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration required lap and shoulder belts in all new cars starting in 1968," the website states. "Resistance to the life-saving devices at the time was the norm. Drivers and passengers complained that seat belts were uncomfortable and restrictive, but the uproar over mandatory seat belt laws was mostly ideological. One of Hollister's colleagues in the Michigan House called the seat belt bill, 'a pretty good session in mass hysteria created by a corporate-controlled media' and warned that the government would outlaw smoking next." There was resistance to implementing the seat belt laws and some people even made T-shirts that made it appear one was wearing a seatbelt, the website states. (Yeah, I rolled my eyes at that one) While this is a free country, I do believe that there have to be some measures in place to keep the world from spinning into chaos. I mean, people are okay with the "law and order," but wearing a mask or a seatbelt crosses the line. It boggles the mind. Are people only okay with certain laws and regulations as long as it doesn't affect them? Last week, as quoted in a WLOX story, Gov. Tate Reeves indicated that he would be lifting some COVID-19-related restrictions in the coming week. He made the following comment, "It is not going to be our responsibility or government's responsibility to keep every single person from getting COVID," Reeves said. "We can no more accomplish that than we can keep every single Mississippian from getting the flu. The heavy hand of government is no longer required and we're getting very, very, very close to that point." Sure, that's all good and all, but will he also address the other areas of our lives that the government has its hand in? Will the seatbelt laws still be enforced? I mean, shouldn't we let people decide for themselves if they want to be thrown from a car during an accident? How about the legal drinking limit? Will people be allowed to drink and drive and not suffer the consequences? When it comes to building structures, will we do away with planning and zoning commissions; building codes; and other such regulations? Why can't people build what they want, despite the aesthetic or standard of a particular area? How about running those stop signs or obey-ing the speed limits? Will we still need to get a driver's license? According to the Mississippi State Department of Health, prior to attending school, children must have the following vaccinations: Diptheria, tetanus, pertussis; polio; hepatitis B; measles, mumps, rubella; and chickenpox. Will we do away with those as well? How many parents, and I guess I would be speaking to the ones who vehemently oppose the current health guidelines, have said "sure sign my kids up for the vaccinations," with no questions or research beforehand? I still have my vaccination card listing all the vaccines I got prior to attending school and later, college. They've been keeping records of our vaccinations for quite a long time now. I could go on and on. I think the "heavy hand of government" has been alive and well since well before the COVID-19 pandemic. For me, it's just all so contradictory when they (politicians mainly) say they don't want the government to infringe on rights, but will continue to do so in other ways that we are accustomed to. Like, make up your mind. Whatever our elected officials decide, I hope it is an informed and logical decision backed by the medical data and facts, not the whiney and misinformed opinions from Facebook and YouTube "experts." But what has made me sad, is that we even needed some of the more drastic measures in place to begin with. People needed to be told to care about one another. Sure, I know some don't like the mask and social distancing, and I know that businesses and families have been hurt. That doesn't escape me. But, the sacrifices we have all had to make are for the greater good and future of our neighbors and communities. Doesn't the Bible say to love thy neighbor? I didn't realize it came with stipulations like prioritizing consumerism and is not nearly as important as dancing in bars, festivals, parades, etc. If history has taught us anything, it's that medical breakthroughs; social distancing; masks (gasp); and vaccines helped end other pandemics. We should learn from history. And yes, I'm STILL waiting for the day that I will walk into Walmart and see the maskless, shirtless, and shoeless "warrior." Well, they don't really look like warriors, more like the spoiled and selfish Veruca Salt character from the film "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," who screams and shrieks when her father doesn't give into her demands. "We're all going to die, all of us, what a circus! That alone should make us love each other but it doesn't. We are terrorized and flattened by trivialities, we are eaten by nothing." Charles Bukowski. Cassandra is a staff writer at the Sea Coast Echo and can be reached at cassandra@seacoastecho.com.

TIMOTHY ALLEN PAPANIA

Timothy Allen Papania, 22 of Brooklyn, departed this life Thursday evening, February 25th in Saucier.

He was born January 12, 1999 in Bay St. Louis, the youngest of four children to Butch and Tina Papania.

Tim grew up in the Kiln and came to enjoy Legos and other construction based toys, along with video games and electronics. He was very “engineering-minded” from a very early age, able to solve or figure out most anything.

As a student, Tim was extremely bright and gifted, winning many academic awards, including a National Merit Award and was a member of the MENSA Association. Tim was also a member of the JROTC while at Hancock High School, achieving the rank of Company Commander.

After graduation, he moved on to college where he studied business finance. But Tim wasn’t just a bookworm either. He also enjoyed hunting and fishing, doing service projects and volunteering around church and the community, along with trying to out-do his father at sarcasm.

A Christian by faith, Tim attended Northwood Church in Wiggins, serving on the host and serve teams, and wherever he could help out. He was also missions-oriented, volunteering with Habitat for Humanity and others from time to time.

He is lovingly remembered as a quick-witted, intelligent young man who could see solutions. A loving, caring son, Tim’s heart was to help by solving issues to make things better for everyone. He will be forever loved and missed by his parents, and all whose life he touched.

He was preceded by his maternal grandmother, Pauline Papania, and his maternal grandfather, Sherman Herrington.

The son, the son, who will take the son?

BY GARY ANDREWS

I received this email from a friend of mine that lives in the Los Angeles area. In fact, this is a person that I had not seen since Junior High School and on our 40th class reunion, in 2004, he showed up to be with the classmates he started school with. Since that time, he and I have corresponded by email quite a bit.

As I read this story I was reminded of another great story, that also has a fabulous plot, “The Touch of the Master’s Hand,” by Myra B. Welch. If you have not read this poem, I recommend it highly because of the message it gives to you.

So often we look to the world to supply our every need and believe that if we had just one item our troubles would cease to be over. Too often we are looking in the wrong places for fulfillment. All of us want our worldly possessions and we want to be loved and accepted.

The truth is that we only need one person to eliminate our troubles and problems. All He asks is that we believe!

As you read the following keep in mind what your world is like around you. Are you so wrapped up in what you are doing and searching for that you are missing the one person you need to know personally?

My Son

A wealthy man and his son loved to collect rare works of art. They had everything in their collection, from Picasso to Raphael. They would often sit together and admire the great works of art.

When the Vietnam conflict broke out, the son went to war. He was very courageous and died in battle while rescuing another soldier. The father was notified and grieved deeply for his only son.

About a month later, just before Christmas, there was a knock at the door. A young man stood at the door with a large package in his hands.

He said, “Sir, you don’t know me, but I am the soldier for whom your son gave his life. He saved many lives that day, and he was carrying me to safety when a bullet struck him in the heart, and he died instantly.

He often talked about you, and your love for art.” The young man held out this package. “I know this isn’t much. I’m not really a great artist, but I think your son would have wanted you to have this.”

The father opened the package. It was a portrait of his son, painted by the young man. He stared in awe at the way the soldier had captured the personality of his son in the painting. The father was so drawn to the eyes that his own eyes welled up with tears. He thanked the young man and offered to pay him for the picture. “Oh, no sir, I could never repay what your son did for me. It’s a gift.”

The father hung the portrait over his mantle. Every time visitors came to his home, he took them to see the portrait of his son before he showed them any of the other great works he had collected.

The man died a few months later. There was to be a great auction of his paintings. Many influential people gathered, excited over seeing the great paintings and having an opportunity to purchase one for their collection.

On the platform sat the painting of the son. The auctioneer pounded his gavel. “We will start the bidding with this picture of the son. Who will bid for this picture?”

There was silence.

Then a voice in the back of the room shouted, “We want to see the famous paintings. Skip this one.”

But the auctioneer persisted. “Will somebody bid for this painting. Who will start the bidding? $100, $200?”

Another voice angrily. “We didn’t come to see this painting. We came to see the Van Gogh’s, the Rembrandts. Get on with the real bids!”

But still the auctioneer continued. “The son! The son! Who’ll take the son?”

Finally, a voice came from the very back of the room. It was the longtime gardener of the man and his son. “I’ll give $10 for the painting.” Being a poor man, it was all he could afford.

“We have $10, who will bid $20?”

“Give it to him for $10. Let us see the masters.”

“$10 is the bid, won’t someone bid $20?”

The crowd was becoming angry. They did not want the picture of the son.

They wanted the more worthy investments for their collections.

The auctioneer pounded the gavel. “Going once, twice, SOLD for $10!”

A man sitting on the second row shouted, “Now let’s get on with the collection!”

The auctioneer laid down his gavel. “I’m sorry, the auction is over.”

“What about the paintings?”

“I am sorry. When I was called to conduct this auction, I was told of a secret stipulation in the will. I was not allowed to reveal that stipulation until this time. Only the painting of the son would be auctioned. Whoever bought that painting would inherit the entire estate, including the paintings.

The man who took the son gets everything!”

God gave His son 2,000 years ago to die on the cross. Much like the auctioneer, His message today is: “The son, the son, who’ll take the son?”

Because, you see, whoever takes the Son gets everything.

“FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD THAT HE GAVE HIS ONLY BEGOTTEN SON, THAT WHOSEVER BELIEVETH IN HIM SHOULD NOT PERISH, BUT HAVE EVERLASTING LIFE” JOHN 3:16 KJV.

THAT’S LOVE.

PRCC offering Commercial Truck Driving classes

SEA COAST ECHO

HATTIESBURG, Miss. – Pearl River Community College has implemented a new Commercial Truck Driving (CDL) program designed to prepare individuals to drive trucks and other commercial vehicles.

CDL is a four-week program based at the Lowery Woodall Advanced Technology Center in Hattiesburg.

Instruction includes operating diesel-powered vehicles, loading and unloading cargo, reporting delays or accidents on the road, verifying loads against shipping records, and maintaining necessary records. Applicants may earn a Certificate of Completion from workforce training and have the opportunity to receive a Class A CDL license.

“This is an opportunity for someone to learn a skill they enjoy and they can earn above-average wages,” said Paul Shelby, the program instructor. “There is a demand for drivers with a CDL. With experience and a good driving record, the pay potential is above average.”

Shelby spent 34 years driving for Georgia Pacific Chemical, and some 40 years overall, where he logged more than three million miles driving mostly in the southeast United States.

Requirements for the PRCC program include a Department of Transportation physical and drug screen, a Class A learner’s permit, a valid driver’s license, driving history report and take the WorkKeys test.

Rebecca Brown, PRCC’s Dean of Workforce and Community Development, said the truck-driving program fulfills a much-needed demand for moving products, especially during the COVID-19 pandemic.

“There is a vital need for truck drivers as essential workers at the heart of our national supply chain,” said Brown. “This program prepares drivers to connect with opportunities in both local and over-the-road driving careers at better-than-average wages.”

Shelby, a Taylorsville native, said he got hooked on truck driving when he was in a transportation unit of the National Guard. He is currently teaching the second class of students at PRCC.

“I went through truck-driving school at Fort Polk (La.),” he said. “I was hooked. This job is a great opportunity to teach people a skill that I always enjoyed.”

PRCC was able to purchase the truck and trailer using federal CARES Act funding allocated to community colleges by the Mississippi state legislature.

PRCC’s main campus in Poplarville also offers Commercial Truck Driving. It’s a four-week instructional program that prepares individuals to drive trucks and other commercial vehicles.

The PRCC Workforce Education Department is located at the Woodall Advanced Technology Center, 906 Sullivan Drive, Hattiesburg. To learn more about the CDL program, and other Wildcat Workforce opportunities, call 601-554-4646 or email us at workforce@prcc.edu.

Krewe of Selene Powers Thru the Pandemic!!!

BY SUE WARREN

Although Covid-19 has marred and scarred the 2020-2021 Mardi Gras Season and life as we know it, the Krewe of Selene, under the direction of Founder and Captain Terri Downie and assisted by Mary Mizell and Pam Marshall, has continued and thrived! Our leaders labored tirelessly thru the pandemic to plan activities, not knowing whether they would be held as scheduled or not. Only one party was actually held—a delightful Christmas party for all ladies of the Krewe was held at the home of Pam Marshall and was enjoyed by all who were able to attend. Festive decorations and fabulous finger foods were outstanding and it was great fun to visit with friends again!

As with some other Gulf Coast Krewes, new royalty was not selected for the 2020-2021 Season due to the likelihood of Mardi Gras being canceled however Royalty for 2019-2020, Queen Angie Burkhardt and King Steve Burkhardt, generously agreed to continue to represent Selene at events if needed. But have no fear—Terri, Mary, and Pam are already hard at work in preparation for the 2021-2022 Season and the possibly of a Spring event, should conditions allow.

The Selene Dancers, under the direction of Mary Mizell, continued to practice the entire fall on a jazzy number that was to be performed at the Mardi Gras party on January 9. Unfortunately, circumstances caused the event to be canceled literally at the very last minute, just a matter of days before the performance. The Dancers were joined in the number by a large group of Selene guys who also worked very hard on the routine. This group of male performers is tentatively going by the name of “The Diamondhead Chippendale Dancers” and may be available for parties in the near future!!! Seriously, the Dancers enjoyed working with the men in the dance routine and look forward to doing so again. The wonderful fellows are to be commended for their effort and diligence. Mary Mizell is to be commended for her choreography, as always, and for her patience!

In lieu of current Mardi Gras pictures, please enjoy photos of past Selene Kings and Queens in preparation for the next Season of Fun and Frivolity when Covid-19 will be a distant memory. Until then: Laissez le Bon Temps Rouler!!!

Shore Thing: Mack The Knife

The fishing has steadily gotten better, since the freezing weather in February. I had a trip this past week, and it was a nice mixed bag of fish. Just fishing a few miles from Bayou Caddy, we caught: white trout, redfish, black drum, sheepshead and flounder. I always enjoy the days when there is a variety of fish, not knowing what the next bite will bring.

Yes, the variety is cool, but if you plan on keeping these fish, you better have the right tools to clean them. Every time I lay my fish cleaning gear out, it reminds me of a dear old friend.

I was very fortunate, early on in my fishing career to work along side a professional fish cleaner. Mack “The Knife” Brousseau, is still the best fish cleaner I’ve ever seen. He spent many years cleaning thousands and thousands of fish in Venice Marina (Venice, Louisiana).

He passed away in 2006, but he taught me, and many guides the fastest, easiest and most efficient ways to clean fish. If you were willing to learn, he was willing to teach.

He had an expert technique for every species, but he also had the right tools. He had all his stuff laid out, within close reach. Every tool had a purpose.

Mack always wore a chain mesh glove. He said it made it easier to control a slimy fish. It also kept him from accidentally cutting his hand open. The mesh is also easy to rinse out. His main weapon of choice was an electric knife. It made quick, effortless,

Shore Thing Fishing Report By Capt. Sonny Schindler

and beautiful work of speckled trout. He kept a filet knife for delicate trimming work, and for when the power was out. The serrated blade, was for the big scaled fish, like the redfish, sheepshead, snapper and drum. Mack could also carve a big tuna or amberjack in seconds with the serrated blade. He kept a heavy duty wire brush for skinning fish, if people requested that. There was always a sharpener close by, to keep the blades razor sharp. Every tool had a purpose, and he would jump back and forth from blade to blade. He was an absolute artist at the cleaning table. To this day, I still use the exact same cleaning tools he used.

If you don’t have a guy like Mack “The Knife” to show you how to clean fish, YOUTUBE is a great learning aid. Really though, the only way to learn is just roll up your sleeves and get dirty. Everyone at some point in time had to learn how to clean fish. I will forever be grateful for the lessons that Mack taught me. Miss you Mack, thanks again for everything buddy!
